Dear Sirs,

Re: CHAS Scheme Assessment

I have now completed my assessment of your submission.

I am pleased to inform you I have assessed your application as compliant and this has been recorded in the CHAS scheme database. You should not take compliance within CHAS as a right of entry to clients approved or select list. They have a right to ask for additional health and safety information in future applications or for invitations to tender.

At this stage we do not issue a certificate of compliance or a registration number. Our clients can and should verify your compliance status by checking our database or by sending them a copy of this letter.

If you want a certificate of accreditation and license for the use of the CHAS logo on your livery and stationery, you should visit the CHAS website where you can get information about accreditation and an application form. Being accredited you can get access to your database page and the history of any client hits on your company. However, accreditation requires you to be assessed annually.

Please visit the CHAS web site for further information about the scheme www.chas.gov.uk.

Yours sincerely

G S Musson
